Meet The Faculty

Mr. Pugh Works On Novel When Not Attending Class

Mr. John Joseph Pugh, instructor in English and Speech at Loyola, is presently working on a biographical novel which he hopes to complete in conjunction with the graduate work which he is doing at Hopkins. He looks forward to a teaching and writing career.

A graduate of Loyola College in 1943, he is now married and includes in his family a three year old boy.

Moderator Of Seminar

Besides his teaching and graduate work, Mr. Pugh is the Moderator of Loyola's newly-formed Creative Writing Seminar. He believes that such an organization will fill the need for those interested in literary endeavor.

His background includes a four year hitch in the Navy during which time he served on a minesweeper in the Atlantic. He also did Public Relations Work while in the service.

Active At Loyola

Active while he was attending College, Mr. Pugh was elected a member of the Alpha Sigma Nu and is connected with the Alumni Chapter of that group. He is also a faculty member of Tau Kappa Alpha.

Mr. Pugh teaches Public Speaking in the Evening School of John Hopkins when he is not busy with his other activities.

Burke is a district reporter for The Baltimore News-Post and Plunkett is working on the copy desk of The Sun.

15% Have No Reason For College

Why are you in College?

Fifteen percent of the students recently polled on that and other questions didn't know. Twenty percent had well-founded reasons, and the remainder submitted "adequate" reasons.

The same low percentage of correct answers prevailed on "the meaning of education" as in the rest of the tabulation. Other pertinent questions included "Do you have any standards by which to judge your education?", and "What do you mean by Christian Standards?"

Poll Widely Distributed

The results of the poll distributed among Catholic College students by the NFCCS National Congress Theme Committee were announced by Miss Patricia Burns, chairman, at the Congress in Philadelphia last month.

At this time, she made the few remarks necessary to point out the problem they presented to student leaders; that of refuting the materialistic and secular attitudes rampant among Catholic students. "Many of the answers indicated a pre-occupation with training for future jobs only," she reported.

Only Seven From Loyola

Intended to test typical student attitudes toward their education, as well as to reveal any faults in the Catholic Educational system, the poll was distributed about two months ago to all NFCCS member schools. Seven completed copies from a possible two hundred were returned here at Loyola.

Such constructive efforts as this poll are one of the major services of the NFCCS.

Accounting Club Elects Curry

The Accounting Club of Loyola College conducted an election of officers on Wednesday, May 12.

John J. Curry was elected president; Gordon F. Getz, vice-president and treasurer; and Harry T. Falen, secretary.

Thomas J. Burkart is the retiring president of the club.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

Second Annual Alumni Dance

Tomorrow evening, May 22, the Alumni Gymnasium will be the scene of a real Alumni activity. The occasion will be the Second Annual Alumni Dance. The "Old Grads" will turn out to honor the newest Alumni of the graduating Classes of 1948.

The Alumni Dance Committee is grateful for the assistance given it in preparing for this dance. Four members of the Student Body have been most helpful to the Committee in contacting the Graduates in whose honor the dance is being given. Acting as contactmen were Student Council President, Dudley M. Shoemaker, E. O'Neill Cole, Thomas Gisriel and Frank Sweeney.

On the evening of the 22nd, the graduates of this year will be the guests of honor of the Association and will have their first opportunity to meet the Alumni Association as a group. We hope that this contact will be the beginning of real active interest in the varied program that the Association hopes to provide for the coming year.

From advance reservations the prospects are for a large attendance and a most enjoyable evening. Chairman J. Joseph Curran, his Alumni Committee and their student helpers deserve a round of applause and congratulations for the splendid job that they have done.

Alumni Graduate Degrees

The Editor of Alumni Doings has received word of the coming graduation of Loyola men from universities and professional schools in different parts of the country. In order to give a proper coverage to this item, we make this request for further information. Send us exact information on degrees received or to be received in the near future. Please answer promptly so that we may use the material for the next issue of THE GREYHOUND. Alumni Doings at that time will publish a complete list of the names and degrees received up to the time of copy-deadline for the issue. Your classmates will be anxious to know of your graduation. How about it? Drop us a line today!

Class Lists

In recent weeks several Alumni have called at the Office and offered to check our class lists against their own lists of known addresses. In doing this they are rendering the Alumni Association an invaluable service. Every name that is taken from our list of "unknowns" and placed in the active file means another Alumnus who will receive regularly THE GREYHOUND and Alumni and College notices. There are no doubt a number of men from your class on our "unknown" list. You may know of their whereabouts. Won't you help us? Call at the Office some afternoon or evening and check your Class List.

Four New Releases Present Varied Musical Arrangement

by Dick Coleman

Four new ones, white-labeled, direct from the old Columbia waxery with some fine and not so fine tuff in the grooves, are in the offing this issue.

First off, Mr. Kyser and Company present My Fair Lady with Babbitt balladeering. Will never see the Hit Parade. The reverse side won't either but it's cute and catchy tune. Gloria Wood and the Campus Kids do it up in the not so hot Kyser style.

Sinatra Gets A New One

Secondly, there is a disc we think will go sky-high. Sinatra sings it.

It's a jump tune and the best beat Sinatra's ever had. And his cohort Mr. Axel Stordahl kicks in with a finely arranged accompaniment.

The other side of this disc is a seller too, as the bow-tie boy comes up with a smartly styled arrangement of All of Me.

A Word On Peggy Lee

The third Columbia cutting is a repressing of an oldie but a goodie which if you didn't get an original—better get one now. It's an old cutting, made during the time Peggy Lee sang with Bennie Goodman and Ork. She sings Somebody Else is Taking My Place and Why Don't You Do Right. Truly a collector's item.

Lastly, Dinah Shore does her usual good job on My Guitar with a Latin American background and It Was Written In The Stars, from the show Casbah. I'll leave now, but quit needlin' me.

Gallagher Wins Jenkins Medal In Annual Debate

Francis X. Gallagher was awarded the Gold Medal in the Jenkins Prize Debate which was held in the Loyola Library on Friday, May 14. The other contestants were Dudley M. Shoemaker, Donald E. Fay, Winston T. Kourey, John C. Evelius and Lawrence A. Mooney.

The debate topic was "Resolved: that Selective Service and Universal Military Training Should Be Adopted By The U. S. Now." Gallagher, Shoemaker and Kourey represented the affirmative and Evelius, Fay and Mooney the negative.

Three Judge

The debate is an annual event at the college. The Rev. Joseph A. d'Invioliers, S. J., the Rev. Richard Ingram, S. J. and Mr. Harry W. Kirwin served as judges in the recent debate. Participants for the event were chosen on the basis of the activity and seniority in the Bellarmine Debating Society.

The Prize Debate constituted the final activity of the Debating Society for this year. The organization has had a full schedule since October, engaging in about forty-five debates with various Colleges and Universities in the East.

Large Attendance

The attendance at the Prize Debate was one of the largest of the year. It took place during the two open periods on Friday morning and the students were free at this time.

They evidenced more than their share of interest in the debate inasmuch as the congressional decision on this question will determine whether or not many of them will continue their college education.

Dean Announces May 24 Holiday

The 1948 Spring Term will open next Tuesday, May 25 and will extend until July 20. The usual term holiday has been set for Monday, May 24 it was announced by the Office of the Dean.

The Spring Term will extend eight weeks. The rule which exempts those students who obtain an average of 90% or over in their subjects will be in effect during the Spring Term.

The Spring Term is designed as part of the accelerated program enabling students to obtain a degree in three years.

It will be optional this year for all students, but all persons wishing to graduate with their class must take it.

Orators Take Part In Tests

Loyola's orators have completed a successful fortnight of activity. Donald E. Fay, who won the Hearst Papers' College Championship for the State of Maryland tied for first place in the Eastern zone Finals in Albany, New York.

Fay was eliminated, however, when a special count of overall percentage points was taken to break the tie. During his stay in Albany, he visited many places of historical interest.

John C. Evelius placed third in the Veterans Unit Oratorical Contest of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade held at Calvert Hall on May 14.

The current year has been the occasion of many opportunities for the students to take part in affairs of a forensic nature. Approximately 20 radio broadcasts were participated in by Loyola students.

Statesmen All

If the course of events in the chivalry-bedecked South continues the present trend, Harry S. Truman will probably go down in history as one of the greatest political martyrs of our nation.

The Southern leaders seem intent on seeing that Truman will not be nominated at the Democratic National Convention. Should their efforts be one of the primary causes for the failure of the Democrats to nominate Truman, then he will undoubtedly be defeated because he stood his ground on the Civil Rights Issue.

Time will dissolve the present day difficulties brought about by the race question. When that solution does arrive and when the American people accept the Negro as he should be accepted, then they may look back upon Truman as a man who fought for what was right, as a man who was dislodged from the highest office in the land because he did not waver in principles of basic human justice.

It may be a paradox that Truman was backed into greatness. Unlike so many of the men who have gone before him, Truman may be honored not because he was elected president but because he was not even nominated. Perhaps the history books of tomorrow will picture Washington, Lincoln and Truman as the three greatest presidents of the United States.

If that should be so, then we have the Southern gentlemen to thank. It appears that they are going to make an otherwise ordinary president a great man.

Back In Again?

Despite eleventh hour overtures by the peace-loving Soviet Union, it appears that Congress is going to pass legislation which will recall from the grave Selective Service and Universal Military Training.

Should no special provisions be made for exemption of College students, it may easily happen that our nation's higher educational institutions may again become crippled by the lack of students. This will mean that Loyola will be among those hit hardest because of its comparatively small enrollment.

There should be no reason for alarm, however. Even in the most critical times of the past war, Loyola managed to keep its doors open and its classes operating. The Administration was cheered at times by the increase of two or three students in the school enrollment. Bitter times were weathered in the past and should the safety of our nation be jeopardized and the conditions warrant it, Loyola will again meet the challenge be it graver than ever before.

The Critilog

by George Herman

About four months ago a novel was published called, oddly enough, Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay. The sales were pretty normal at first, and then they skyrocketed and critics began calling it a new story that replaces Black Beauty—with mules.

The story was highly entertaining, concerning a young boy, a dominating stepmother and a little love interest with a girl who falls for the brawny bully of the town. Upon reading it you can almost hear music for the story is written in such a manner that remaking it into a musical would be ridiculously easy.

Now Hollywood has come out with the motion picture version of Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay with June Haver as the girl; the boy who loves donkeys is played by Lon MacAllister. It is tops in tunes and the story remains one of the best; but there is one thing wrong—Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay is not a sequel to Home In Indiana. It is an original show—an original story and not a second step on a horse-theme.

Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay, in case you're interested, is the call of the mules. If you yell it above the hee-ing and hawing of the mules they'll pull up anything—including a rather ponderous tractor—as they do in the story.

Another novel on the mule theme which has been purchased by Hollywood, but which, as yet, has not been produced or released, is the hilarious, post-war story of Francis.

While Scudda-Hoo, Scudda-Hay was refreshing and on the sentimental side, Francis would be far more hilarious. Francis is the story of an Army mule who knows more than the Intelligence Corps about enemy spy movements, and through his experience as an Army mule, he has learned to come up with astounding strategy and a very annoying pastime—he talks. Furthermore, he talks to anybody but shows a remarkable nonchalance towards brass.

Look for Francis, if you want a good story—and if you want to make a cool million dollars on a novel—now is the time for you to make your hero a jackass.

Letters To The Editor

May 14, 1948

Dear Sir:

They say that last week in Erie County, New York, five inches of snow fell; an unusual occurrence for this time of year. And in the GREYHOUND, the scrupulously accurate GREYHOUND, last week took place another unusual occurrence, when slander fell.

I refer, sir, to the grossly misrepresented account of the Math Club election which manifested itself in the 7 May issue. This election was conducted in the approved manner; Mr. Roberts would have been proud with two representatives of the Student Council, the Moderator, the president of the club, and each of the candidates attending.

The presence of the "six idle gentlemen" who did the electing requires a bit of an explanation. Two of them were approached by the not-long-to-remain president of the "cipher clique" who ventured that since both were sleeping through Math courses, would they not like to continue their interest in the Math Club . . . The inevitable happened, of course; the six voted solidly for the men they nominated, the only men in the club that they knew. The regular members split their votes among the three men they had nominated for each position. Thus three men were elected to positions who had never before attended a meeting by a process which anyone should understand.

I feel that they will succeed in their new endeavor and bring a fresh, unspoiled outlook to the Math Club which it has never before possessed.

There are no hard feelings, Mr. Editor, in fact don't be surprised if soon these gentlemen invite you to a party. Please let them know in advance what size rope you wear.

Age Makes The Difference

While riding on the Charles Street Bus, a Loyola junior found himself sitting next to a young boy of about eight years of age. His attention was attracted by the sight of a very beautiful girl sitting in front of him.

A young fellow of about five years sat down next to her and struck up a lively conversation by pointing out the various figures in his comic book. This was a cow, this a horse and so on. All in all, he seemed to be doing very well for himself.

"Huh," snorted the eight year old sitting beside the Loyola junior, "I'll bet she would have slapped me across the face if I had tried that stunt."

The Perfect Crime

Not only did a certain student of Loyola College hit a car, but he hit a police car. Not only did he hit a police car but he hit a police car painted white. Not only was it painted white but the siren was wailing when their bumpers shook hands in the middle of the highway. That was the perfect crime.

There were no heated arguments, no sputtering of indignation, no eloquent appeals of righteousness. The student pulled himself out of the car and walked slowly over to the police officers. Without a word, he handed them his credentials and waited for his ticket.

He would have heard the siren, he explained later, but someone in the car was singing a song from Marelyn.

The Stars And Bars Return

Martial law was declared last week in Gettysburg, Penna., to quell the near-riot which occurred when a car driven by a Loyola student honked through the streets with Confederate flags flapping playfully from the bumpers in untainted Yankee ether.

An enraged officer of the law stopped them and demanded to know from what part of Dixie they had migrated. "Southern Maryland, Suh," shouted one of the more eloquent debaters.

The Amiable Autocrat

Eleanor M. Tilton

"The most successful combination he world has ever seen of physician and man of letters"—said Sir William Osler of Dr. Wendell Holmes. Dr. Holmes was an amiable man who aphorized of valuation, "A man who has paid twenty-five dollars for his whistle is likely to blow it louder and longer than other people;" of taxation, "If our property is taxed, it is only to teach us that liberty is worth paying for as well as fighting for."

The Amiable Autocrat, a biography by Eleanor M. Tilton treats Dr. Holmes affectionately but without sentimentality. It portrays his student days in the antimony and antiphlogistic age; years in Paris where he studied under the medical giants of those days—Louis, Picard; his professorship at Harvard Medical School. It tells of his study of intermittent fever and his part in the introduction of anaesthesia (he coined the word). Here you see a Boston Brahmin in the years before the town became Late and Apley. This is Holmes of the amphitheatre and The Atlantic, the autocrat of the Lyceum and the banquet table. Miss Tilton is to be congratulated for a very readable volume.

New French Works

During the last few weeks the library has received many books which will be added to the French collection. Ambitious students may now read Bloy, Maritain, Claudel, Maurice, Peguy, Maurois in the original. These French representatives of the Catholic literary revival have influenced European and world literature to a great degree within the last seventy-five years. For those of you who would like to know why, read some of their works and find the answer.

Spring Teams Near End Of Long, Active Season

by Don Fay, Sports Editor

The calendar says it's May 21. That means within a week, or ten days at the most, the lengthy spring sports season will be brought to a close. No one can say that the five-team program was not long and active. And regardless of the number of wins and losses on the respective sides of the ledger, it has also been a successful spring. This, of course is not meant to hint that the log for the season will not show more wins than defeats. It will more than balance in favor of the victories.

But let's take a glance at the good done this year, even if victory number one hadn't been etched in the books.

Nearly one hundred athletes participated for Loyola since early April. That means nearly one tenth of the student body represented its college in sports. That fact in itself means success for the players, the teams, for Loyola.

On The Subject Of All-Stars

Due to the huge schedule, the great number of opponents faced, etc., we think it unfeasible to attempt to pick any all-star conference or such teams for any of the sports. However, we do wish to point out to any alleged crystal ballers who might try the same, that Loyola has men who can place on the first teams of all the mythical aggregations.

For instance:

BASEBALL—Why leave out Mike Zedalis, Tommy Lind, Dick Farace, Bill Carroll, and more?

TENNIS—Just jot down the big four, Frank Scrivener, Jerry Laroque, Jim Lacy, Gene Nolan, and you've got a start.

GOLF—We'll take Jack Cronin (who seems to like the spot of low man on the total pole), Nemo Haslbeck, Len Saltysiak, Mel Beeler.

LACROSSE—Ray Wittelsberger, Ed Hughes, Frank Kimmel without a doubt, and others too.

TRACK—Walt Smyth, George Brown, Gerry Kimmitt, Jack Brunk, etc.

This Is It

After a few quick months of running with the Hounds, we've come to the end of the trail. With the next issue, a new sports editor will be at the head of the pack.

As we bang out our last few lines, we'd like to say thanks in a big way to all those who cooperated so fully with the sports department in making our tenure such an enjoyable one. The Athletic office, all the coaches, the players, each and every one who was asked for help gave generously and made our task lighter.

And to all those who let us know what they thought of the 'Hound, whether in praise or in criticism, we are grateful. It was an enjoyable job working for and with such men.

Linksmen Take Mason-Dixon Tourney; Cronin's 156 Wins Individual Honors

by Tom Gisriel

Loyola, for the second straight year, won the Mason-Dixon tournament with its four man team totally defeating the nearest opponent by 30 strokes.

The tournament was a 36 hole affair held at Mount Peasant golf course, and was made more difficult by playing front tees in the morning and back tees in the afternoon.

Washington Second

Washington College was the closest contender and took second place honors. Western Maryland was third, Johns Hopkins fourth, Baltimore University fifth and Towson State Teachers sixth.

Jack Cronin, hitting very accurate long iron shots, won medalist honors with a pair of 78's for a total of 156. Jack Feely of Washington College was second with a total of 159 and Leo Haslbeck was third with a total of 163. Saltysiak and Beeler both had a total of 174.

Villanova 8 1/2, Loyola 1/2

Traveling to Philadelphia without the aid of Len Saltysiak the team No. 3 golfer, the linksmen dropped their second match of the season to Villanova 8 1/2 to 1/2.

Cronin Low

Cronin was low for Loyola with a 75, and was the only man to score for Loyola by holding his opponent. Haslbeck, Beeler, Gisriel, Anderson and Davis all lost their matches by a very close margin.

Loyola 7 1/2, LaSalle 1 1/2

Once again the golfers played in a steady downpour of rain and defeated the visiting La Salle team at Mount Pleasant. Cronin, despite the rain, shot a 77, 5 over par, to lead Loyola in the victory. Saltysiak, Beeler, Anderson and Davis all won their matches, and Haslbeck halved with his opponent.

W. Md. Invitation

University of Maryland won the 36 Hole Western Maryland Invitation Tournament in Westminster and Loyola took second place honors out of a field of eight colleges. Dickinson was third, Lehigh fourth, Gettysburg fifth, Washington College sixth, Western Maryland seventh and Johns Hopkins was eighth.

Reid Phippeny of Maryland took medal honors with a total of 145 for 36 holes. Jack Cronin and Leo Haslbeck were both tied 4 strokes behind him with totals of 149. Mel Beeler had a total of 154 and Len Saltysiak shot 166 strokes for 36 holes.

Rev. William Herlihy, S. J.

Hopkins, Bees Bow On Court

Loyola defeated the University of Baltimore and Johns Hopkins in May 10th and 12th tennis matches. Hound team members lost only four of the forty sets played in the two meetings, setting Baltimore down 9-0, and Hopkins 7-2.

The Bees were badly blanked on their home court; they didn't win a single set and were held at love through eleven of them. Coach Colimore aired what is becoming the established varsity, that is, Frank Scrivener, Jerry Laroque, Gene Nolan, Joe Thaler, and Joe Ward.

Hopkins gave more opposition. The Jay's Shirodkar put down Thaler, 6-4, 7-9, 6-4; and their doubles team of Blaustein-Attridge beat Nolan-T. McDermott 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. George Krug and Bill McDermott appeared in the Hounds' doubles line-up. The 5-1 singles score in Loyola's favor was followed by a 2-1 doubles advantage.

The recently instigated Junior Varsity activities are in full swing. J. V. players W. McDermott, George Krug, Andy O'Donnell, Bill Monaghan, Gus Gilbert, and T. McDermott alternate frequently in the varsity line-up, both doubles and singles. The 'B' team has beaten Towson Teacher's varsity, and Hopkins' J. V.

Patterson Park's 62 Points Win First Place In 6th Meet

by Gerry McCormick

The sixth running of the annual Loyola Invitation Track Meet presented the best high school runners in the Baltimore-Washington area on Saturday, May 8, at Evergreen. The fine quality of the competition is indicated by the fact that five previous records were broken and the winners of all events were closely pressed.

Patterson Park won team honors with a total of 62 points, as compared to the 53 points of its nearest rival, City College. The Patterson crack mile relay team, sparked by Leo Szamski, clinched the crown by speeding over the course in 3 minutes and 40 seconds, two seconds faster than Mt. St. Joe.

Rehak, Meehan Star

There was considerable interest in the winner of the trophy for individual high scoring. Frank Rehak, St. Joe's sensational discus and shotput man, shattered the standing records as he hurled the discus

Smyth Finishes First In High; Second In Low Hurdles In Meet

Johns Hopkins took the Mason-Dixon Conference tournament title last week by rolling up 50½ points to defeat its nearest foe, Washington College, by 13½ markers. Loyola, scoring sixteen points, finished sixth in the meet held at Catholic University.

Walt Smyth continued his near-perfect record for the season by garnering top position in the high hurdles and finishing second in the low hurdles.

Star At St. Joe

This latter event represented the first time that Smyth, who did his prep work with Mount Saint Joseph's before entering Loyola last September, had been beaten. He contributed more points to the Loyola cause than any other single man on the squad.

Tom Maskell took fifth place in the high hurdles, despite a bad knee. Fourth place in the 100-yard dash went to Jack Brunk.

Chewing Wins

Lynn Chewing, former Navy football star, now performing for Hampden-Sydney College, was the winner.

George Brown finished fifth in the two-mile event.

The Hounds face their toughest foe of the season next Friday when St. Joseph's of Philadelphia visits Evergreen for a dual meet. Coach Bill McElroy opines that every home track record is in real danger at the hands of the visitors.

Binglers Stop Towson By 7-4

Towson State Teachers fell victims by a 7-4 score to Loyola last Saturday afternoon in a Mason-Dixon test at Evergreen. The win gave the Greyhounds the Northern division M-D crown.

Towson outit the winners, 9 to 7, but clutch pitching by Charley Sybert and Lefty Reitz's team's rallying powers brought the victory. Both teams committed two errors.

Ben Spurrier and Bill Tucker, each with two hits, headed the Loyola hit parade.

The visitors scored first with two runs in the third, but Loyola rallied for four tallies in the same stanza. Towson got two more in the sixth, while the winners reached pitcher Bill Fischer for one in the fifth and two more in the eighth.

Softball To Open May 31

by Gene Corrigan

Intramurals are climbing out of the mud and approaching the end of the spring schedules. Softball is next on the agenda, and a new twist in the form of a faculty team is planned.

Director of Intramurals Mueller has announced that Softball play will start May 31. The usual schedule-entry blank system will be in effect, and captains of potential twelve-man teams should fill in the forms now available. They are due in the Intramural mailbox by May 28.

All Are Eligible

All students are eligible for Spring play, as no Varsity teams are in operation at that time. However, no one team may have more than two members from the '48 baseball Varsity.

Tennis competition has advanced to the third round. The Visek-Murphy combo are awaiting quarter final playoffs to provide them with semi-final competition. O'Connor-Lynch and Zapf-Reese are ready for a match, while Freeze-Fitzpatrick and Cammarata-Schanberger are awaiting a pair of opponents to enter their quarter final field.

Golf Action

In golf, Bradyhouse-Winterson and Cronin-McCullough have reached the semi-finals. Played under winter rules and match play arrangements, the result of this match should be ready for the next issue.

The Line-Up

Saltysiak Has Golf Talent Plus Links Philosophy; Hughes 'Crosse High Scorer

by Mickey Parr

SALTYSIAK

In the words of Walter Hagen, one of golfdom's greatest pros, "The trouble with most golfers is this: They may have perfect swings, but they have no philosophy. So they get nowhere."

Loyola College has on its golf team, a young fellow who is in complete accordance with this theme, and whose record shows it off to good advantage.

Len Saltysiak, declares that the main idea which he keeps in his head is that this game of the fairways is just for fun. He likes to link it up with nature, and all life about him.

Result: Winning Record

The result: No temperamental blowups, no broken clubs when a bad shot rears its ugly head; and the consequence of this is a smooth, steady game, and an enviable winning record.

This is the third successive year in which 'Salty' has been entering scores into the Athletic Department record books as a Loyola golfer. Though his Freshman efforts were not more than fair, an outstanding mark that year was his second place tie in the Western Maryland Invitation Tournament, with rounds of 74-74.

However, last spring Len took a tremendous spurt forward, as he posted eight wins, halved three matches, and lost but one.

Six 1948 Victories

At this writing, philosophizing Len, who is developing the habit of clinching his matches after about 14 holes of play, has notched six 1948 victories, and halved two other tests.

In his Junior year at Towson Catholic High School, Len organized and coached the Owls' first golf team. While stroking for the county school, he finished as runnerup in the Maryland Scholastic Tournament on two occasions.

The best single hole of Len's career, was a double eagle on the fourth hole at the Country Club of Maryland. A 275 yard brassie shot, onto the hidden green, did the trick. . . . honest, it's as simple as that!

Len Saltysiak

Ed Hughes

HUGHES

When a midfielder in lacrosse is able to play most of each game, with very little bench time, he must have a special secret for the marvelous durability of his legs. This statement tabs quite accurately, lean, wiry Ed Hughes, high-scoring Loyola center.

Ed, who has been filling an 'iron man' role through the recently completed stick season, developed his staying powers on the cinder path, as a Poly track man, before turning his efforts toward lacrosse.

Averages Goal Per Game

A perfect cognomen for the hard-shooting center would be 'one-goal-per-game' Hughes. For, in leading the Greyhounds' scoring department for two straight years, his average has tallied out to exactly one marker per contest.

During the 1947 campaign he rang the bell eight times, and then closed the 1948 schedule with nine scoring thrusts to his credit.

However, this latter output required the performance of a hat trick in Loyola's 9 to 2 conquest of Yale, as fireball Ed poured three shots into the net.

Played At Poly

Oddly enough, Hughes did not score even once in the game which he considers the best of his Loyola career. This happened a year ago, when the Green and Gray took an unmerciful 19 to 1 shellacking from Johns Hopkins. During the test, Ed repeatedly wrested the ball from the Jay center, Ray Greene, and played a perfect defensive game.

At Poly, the net-denting midfielder blasted enemy defenses for 17 goals, in his only year of play.

Lacrosse Team Drops 3 Tilts To Out-Of-Towners

Loyola's varsity lacrosse ten ended the 1948 season on a rather dismal note, dropping its final three engagements to out-of-town opponents. Washington and Lee University, of Lexington, Va., Virginia University, of Charlottesville, Va., and Swarthmore College, of Swarthmore, Pa., were the trio of schools which defeated the Indian-minded Greyhounds. All contests were played on the winners' home fields.

The games brought the Hounds' record for the season to a final log of two wins and six defeats. Bish Baker's forces trounced Lehigh by a 15-0 score for it's most impressive win, and spanked Yale, 9-2. Other defeats were inflicted by Hopkins and Maryland.

Washington And Lee Wins

Washington and Lee, victorious by 9-6, had more trouble than it had counted on, especially since freshmen Frank Kimmel and Ed Miller were having field days at the Generals' goal.

Kimmel scored four goals to personally spark the losers' offensive, and Miller supplied the other two Loyola scores.

Tonguc, Hill Star

Tommy Tongue and Alex Hill, with four and three scores each, were too much for the visiting Greyhounds. They contributed to an early 3-0 lead in the first quarter and kept the home team ahead although Kimmel and Miller made their job anything but simple.

The closest Loyola came was 6-5 in the third period, but a three goal splurge in the fourth session drew the winners away for keeps.

Virginia U. Rallies

In the Virginia U. tilt, won by the home clan by a close 4-3 score, the Loyola lacrossers held a brief 3-2 lead during the third period.

Bert Sadtler, star forward for Virginia, then poured in two quick goals, and that was sufficient for victory. Tom Oaster, up-and-coming freshman attackman, inserted two tallies to place first in the individual scoring box. Ed Hughes, the team's high scorer for the year with nine points, scored the other.

Hughes, Miller Score

The Washington and Lee, and Virginia contests were played on a southern tour by the team on May 7 and 8.

The Swarthmore game, staged on May 12, went to the Pennsylvanians by a count of 9-2. This tilt, the final test of the season, saw the Loyola squad find itself out-fought by a scrappy Swarthmore ten. Baker's boys were paced by Ed Hughes and Ed Miller, the two scorers, on offense, and consistently dependable Ray Wittelsberger on defense.

It's A Weary Life For The College President

Can a college president call his life his own? The schedule of the activities of the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., President of Loyola College, would serve to offer a negative answer to this question. To illustrate this point, take a brief glance at the activities of Father Talbot.

On May 13 the President attended the sixtieth anniversary celebration of the Ordination of Monsignor John Belford at the Nativity Rectory in Brooklyn, New York.

To Visit Christian Brothers

Father Talbot will be the guest of the Christian Brothers at a Pontifical High Mass which will be celebrated in the Baltimore Cathedral on May 24. May 23, the day previous will see him in Philadelphia, attending the Silver Jubilee Mass and dinner of the Rev. M. A. Burke.

The Rector will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon at Notre Dame College in Baltimore on May 30, and soon after, board a train for North Carolina.

Commencement Speaker In South

On May 31, Father Talbot is scheduled to deliver the Commencement address at the High School of St. Genevieve-of-the-Pines in Asheville, North Carolina. The next day he will be guest speaker at the graduation ceremonies of St. Genevieve's College.

Back in Baltimore, the President will be the visiting orator at the commencement exercises of the University of Baltimore on June 10. His crowded graduation schedule will end in Aberdeen, Maryland where he will deliver an address at St. Joan of Arc Rectory.

Students may have exams, but college presidents are also forced to lean to the proverbial grindstone.

Breathe Easy Now; It's All Over

Examinations will come to an end today. They have been in progress since last Thursday when the Senior Class began taking their exams two days before the rest of the school.

The Dean's Office has announced that no marks will be given out from that office. Students are to see their professors if they insist upon knowing their marks before they are mailed home.

T. K. A. Elects New Officers

Edward F. Shea was elected provisional president of Tau Kappa Alpha at elections held last Friday afternoon. The other provisional officers elected were Donald E. Fay, vice-president, John C. Evelius, secretary and Francis X. Gallagher, treasurer.

Perrott Moderator

Mr. James A. Perrott, moderator, conducted the elections. He has just returned from Indianapolis where he attended the National Convention of the Honorary Public Speaking Fraternity. He made arrangements for the granting of a charter to the Loyola College chapter.

Boss Stephens Tells How To Swing Local Election

(The Editorial Staff of THE GREYHOUND, believing that no one else could do so capable a job, called upon Mr. Stephens to contribute a writeup of Mr. Stephens. The following is more or less that which he submitted.)

by James Stephens

James H. Stephens, erudite author of the unusually popular "Ace Wittelsberger" comic strip, modestly shrugs aside his newly-acquired fame and insists that any credit belongs rightfully to the moral, aesthetic environment to which he is so accustomed.

"Jim", or "Steve", as he is affectionately known to his thousands of friends, found himself catapulted to the heights through his daily presentation of a comic strip designed to promote Ray Wittelsberger's campaign for president of the A. A.

Is A Good Man

In the strip, cartoonist Stephens embodies all possible virile and honorable traits in his protagonist whom he calls Ace Wittelsberger. Ace is depicted as a Loyola man with marvelous strength, incredible virtue and stunning sagacity. Thus keeping the minds of the student body on the comic-strip character, he furthered the cause of its real life prototype, Ray Wittelsberger.

Stephens drew in many Loyola personages as the comic strip progressed, giving particular attention to his two cronies, Jim Carmody and John Schaub, who were known in the strip as Slim Karmo and Schaubanetta, respectively.

Ends With Mystery

Stephens' comic plot embraced the efforts of Ace Wittelsberger to break up a notorious gambling ring. The strip ended on a note of mystery as Stephens put aside his drawing materials with Ace Wittelsberger locked in a death grip, the outcome of which, favorable or disastrous to Ace, would be determined by the outcome of the elections.

On the day that the official results of the election were announced, Stephens published a supplement to his strip which described the result of the vote in terms of victory for "Ace".

(The Editor regrets that he is unable to find space for the remaining thousand words but he hopes that the readers will not feel that this is a personal insult. Mr. Stephens himself has given permission to cut the article.)
